

LINDSAY THOMPSON

Turning Farmer Dollars into Research Outcomes

My Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board leverages farmer check off dollars to fund research, education, and market development projects to improve the profitability of Maryland's grain farms. I will discuss how MG PUB has forged partnerships with university researchers to produce meaningful applied agricultural research outcomes and needs for future research.

Fall 2021 PSLA

LECTURE

SERIES

November 8, 2021

Seminar takes place live via UMD Zoom

Time: 12PM

Graduate student lunch w/ speaker 1PM

PLSC RM 2107/2109

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE &
NATURAL RESOURCES

DEPARTMENT OF PLANT SCIENCE AND LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

Lindsay Thompson owns Thompson Ag Consulting providing association management, government and public relations services for agricultural non-profits. Thompson has a bachelors in political science from Washington College and Master's degree in Public Policy from University of Maryland, College Park. Lindsay lives on her family's farm in Queenstown Maryland with her husband Jared and two children where she also farms grain with her husband.