

WESLEY PORTER

Developing A Practical Extension Agricultural Engineering Program in Georgia

Typically some of the first disciplines to be requested by producers and Extension Agents are Agronomic based. However, there are many areas within Agricultural Engineering that are very important. I will discuss how I have developed a well-rounded Ag Engineering Extension Program to fill the needs for our producers in the state of Georgia.

Fall 2021 PSLA

LECTURE

SERIES

September 13, 2021

SEMINAR takes place live via

UMD Zoom

Time:

12PM

Dr. Porter earned his B.S. in Agricultural Mechanization and Business, M.S. in Agricultural Engineering, both from Clemson University, and his Ph.D. from Oklahoma State University. During all of this time he has focused on Precision Agriculture, Machinery Systems, and Irrigation. Dr. Porter is now an Associate Professor at the University of Georgia, focusing in these same areas.