Genomics innovations for accelerating genetic gains in legume crops

Legume crops play an important role in food and nutrition security in sub-Saharan Africa and Asia. This seminar will present genomic innovations such as genome assemblies, genetic/QTL maps and genomics-assisted breeding for developing better varieties with stress tolerance and higher nutrition with an overall goal of enhancing genetic gains in legume crops.